The cookie stores personally identifiable information, such as access time, the location from which the access was made and the frequency of site visits by the user. In addition, a cookie already stored by Google Analytics can be deleted at any time via the Internet browser or other software programs.

Furthermore, it is possible for the user to object to the collection of data generated by Google Analytics and the processing of this data by Google and to prevent such. To do this, the user must download and install a browser add-on via <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>. This browser add-on automatically informs Google Analytics after installation that no data and information about the user's visits of websites shall not be transmitted to Google. The installation of the browser add-on is a contradiction. If the user's system is deleted, formatted and reinstalled in the future, the user must reinstall the browser add-on to disable Google Analytics.
